Academic Grievance Process

If a student believes that an incorrect, incomplete or capricious action has been taken regarding an academic matter affecting his/her program (such as an inaccurate or unfair grade), that student must follow the procedural steps below to appeal the action.

1. A student should consult with the instructor to obtain all necessary information regarding the decision and attempt to clarify matters concerning the decision.
2. If the problem remains unresolved, a student may petition (in writing) to the Dean of Academic Affairs, who will consult with the PASS Committee. The Dean of Academic Affairs has the final decision and authority in all academic appeals.
